RUMINATIONS OF A DOG.

I never did have parents—
No one to care for me—
Just a homeless dog's dog of leisure,
The kind you often see.
But I'm thankful for the blessings,
And I'm glad my lot ain't worse—
I might have been a poodle,
With a woman for a nurse.

Oh, you messy little poodle—
Baby ribbons in your hair—
Put on dog just like a human,
The way you're sitting there.
Have your bath in perfumed water—
Namma combs your curly locks—
Go out riding in your carriage—
See the opera from a box.

Oh, you watery-eyed imposter!
Oh, you dud! You pink-eyed fool!
Why, a single flea, I'm certain,
Would fairly make you hop.
You are tucked away at evening
With your gony misery,
In a nightie and a cradle
Where a baby ought to be.

They call you lovey dove and sweetie—
Oh, you curly-headed pup!
Just come down from off the carriage
And watch me eat you up!
Why, you pop-eyed little poodle,
Would I trade my place with you!
How wowl! No, I wouldn't do it!
If you'd throw the nurse in, too.

Yes, I know I'm full of sorrow—
Full of fleas and all of that—
Got no home and have to hustle
In the alley with the cat;
But I'm happy, oh, so happy!
That my lot it ain't no worse—
That I wasn't born a poodle,
With a woman for a nurse.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. THE LEDGER has never yet appealed to the City Council in vain. The generous members of that body always have been ready to respond when called upon to do a worthy or humane act. A few days ago the settees on the Esplanade were crowded with Sons of Rest, and three Past Masters of the Ancient and Honery Order of Do Nots were actually obliged to stand while waiting for the next fellow to come along and ask them to drink. This should not be. The laborer is worthy of his hire, and surely the loafer is worthy of a seat. Let Council provide a few more facilities, and I would suggest Davenport in lieu of the present cold and cheerless iron settees.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women, But Sufferers Need Not Despair

THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Of all the diseases known, with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal, and statistics show that this disease is on the increase among women.

Mrs. Emma Sawyer.

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a brick-dust sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case."

FLY-WORRIED STOCK

Cattle and horses that are obliged to put up a constant fight during the hot weather on account of the swarms of flies, mosquitoes and other insects that keep after them are never in perfect condition. They become practically exhausted with their efforts and are good for nothing else. Cows give less milk, and it's of poorer quality; horses lose flesh and are unfit for heavy work. They do the suffering; you lose the profits. Use

The BEST Bread!

Can only be made out of the best flour. No meal is fit to sit down to without it. I am prepared to furnish my trade the season through the very best flour that can be manufactured. It is PERFECTION. I have sold it continuously for sixteen years and have never made a change. My competitors are changing every year, which is proof that they are not satisfied with the flour they sell. The manufacturer of this flour writes me under date of August 3d as follows: "If you were pleased with Perfection last year, you will be more than satisfied with it now. We thought we had good wheat last season, but our wheat this season is the finest we have had for years." For a limited time I am going to sell this FINE FLOUR at the extremely low price of $5.00 Per Barrel Spot Cash.

At this price you should buy a supply for the season. In fine Flans and Breakfast Bacon I have no competition. The large and increasing demand for my famous RED CANVAS HAMS and BREAKFAST BACON is proof of the superior quality of the meats. Buy only the STAR BRAND in RED Canvas cured from selected young fat hogs—especially for my trade. My PURE LEAF LARD is rendered from the same class of hogs and nothing better can be made.

In my lunches I have a full supply of everything in line. I sell the famous "Beach Nut" Bacon and Dried Beef in glass. It is fine. Sardines, Cove Oysters, Deviled Ham, Deviled Tongue, Deviled Chicken, Potted Ham, Tongue and Chicken, Salmon, Baked Beans with Tomato-Sauce, Pickles, in fact, every article necessary for a most tempting summer lunch.

Don't buy anything else. My purchases for the fall and winter trade have been unusually large and as nearly every article has materially advanced I shall be in position to give my trade some extra values at low prices.

I am still selling the finest blended Coffees at 15, 20 and 25 cents. In Teas I sell the finest offered in Mayaville. My stock of Vegetables of all kinds will at all times be the freshest and best.

All kinds of fruits, season, Poultry, Butter and Eggs. If you want to buy the best come to my house. If you don't want to buy come any way. You are always welcome.

THE YELLOW FEVER!

Why Maysville Escaped the Scourge in 1878

THE LAST OUTBREAK.

The last outbreak of yellow fever in this country was in 1878, when, owing to defective drainage and sewerage, overcrowding and filth in several Southern cities, there were many thousands of cases in the Gulf States and along the Mississippi river. Thirty thousand attacks and 6,000 deaths occurred in Louisiana alone, over 4,000 of these fatalities being in New Orleans. Of 1,000 patients treated in one public hospital in that city 400 died, while only 90 out of 900 succumbed in recorded cases treated privately by four physicians.

The fatality clearly depends largely on the treatment and sanitary conditions by which the patient is surrounded. Unaccustomed persons are peculiarly susceptible to the infection, a remarkable instance being on record—fifty-four out of fifty-five Northern Doctors who went to Memphis in 1878 to treat the disease were themselves attacked, while resident physicians generally escaped.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a brick-dust sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. town the boat approached was to get her away at any cost, regardless of the peril to which her crew or others might thereby be exposed.

No leper was ever shunned with greater dread than was the John Porter by those acquainted with her frightful condition. She seemed to be the very embodiment of death and doom to those whose duty it was to have guided her into a safe and isolated quarantine hundreds of miles below the port where her sighing engine finally ceased their work with a groan of exhaustion and left a monument of graves to bear mute testimony to the cowardly neglect of sworn officials far away, who had fled from duty in craven fear of their lives.

FLEET OF EIGHTEEN BARGES.

The Porter, with a fleet of eighteen barges, which extended 700 feet in front of her bow, and a crew of 35 people, left New Orleans on July 18th, a few days after the outbreak of the plague in that city, bound for St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

REFUSED LANDING AT MAYSVILLE.

Strange as it may appear, the boat was allowed to pass unheeded until Cincinnati was reached on August 15th. Here the health officers would not allow her to land, and at Maysville she met the same refusal. She did land at Aberdeen, however, and the penalty was the death of several good citizens.

At 8 o'clock Saturday evening, August 17th, the ill-fated craft went into port below the Marine Docks, just inside the corporate limits of Gallipolis, with her Captain, four deck hands, two engineers, the lamp trimmer and a Negro cabin boy down with Yellow Jack. The long trip up had been marked by almost constant illness among the crew. One day after the departure from New Orleans a fireman fell sick after standing his first watch. The Porter lay at Gallipolis until the middle of September, and between the time of her arrival and early in October the epidemic had carried off 35 victims, many of them prominent citizens of Gallipolis and Gallia county.

FAMOUS BARGE "MINGO."

During the week ending September 15th, heavy general rains swelled the Ohio to a high stage, and the Porter and her large fleet of barges were torn from their moorings and swept away by the swift current. As speedily as possible she was detached from the barges and landed at the Gallipolis wharf. Her runaway barges floated far down the stream, some of them being wrecked by striking bridge piers at Cincinnati.

One—a covered model barge—had been used as a hospital on the long, sad trip from New Orleans, and had become the subject of peculiar interest and much speculation because of a sickening smell that came from her hold. She was named the Mingo, was valued at $8,000, and lodged a few miles above Cincinnati. There she was visited September 16th by her owner, Captain John A. Porter of Pittsburgh, Health Officer T. C. Minor of Cincinnati, and Dr. R. A. Vance of Gallipolis. They reached her about 10:30 o'clock at night and found her condition horrible. Two feet of bilge water was in her hold, which Dr. Vance attempted to explore, but the putrid exhalations were so powerful he could not withstand them, and was compelled to seek fresh air.

Both physicians were convinced of what had long been suspected—that there were the dead bodies of men who had perished of yellow fever in that reeking hold, to which they had crawled to find succor from their agonies, and that the disgusting stench arose from the decomposition of organic matter. At midnight they drew up and signed a paper declaring that they believed the Mingo responsible for the spread of the contagion; that her existence was a menace to the health of the people, and requesting her owner to destroy her by fire and so rid humanity of the perils of a fearful disease. Captain Porter agreed to do so, and himself applied the torch at 12:30 o'clock on the morning of September 17th.

She burned to the water's edge by daylight, and then the Doctors united in a signed certificate of her destruction and a letter of thanks to Captain Porter. The same day Dr. Minor addressed a letter to the Cincinnati Southern Relief Association, calling attention to the Captain's act, representing him to be a much maligned, impoverished and broken-spirited man, and suggesting the adoption of testimonial of esteem for him. Later an effort was made to appropriate from the fund for yellow fever sufferers an amount sufficient to reimburse Captain Porter, but it was a failure.

Fifteen years after this a resolution was offered in the Ohio Legislature providing for a board to arbitrate the damages occasioned by the burning of the Mingo, for the relief of her owner, but it was lost, owing to a letter from Mayor Alexander of Gallipolis, in which he held when the Porter passed Cincinnati, a United States port of entry, with the plow on board, without formally notifying the marine authorities, who forfeited all claims to reparation for any damages subsequently incurred.

SOME LOCAL FACTS.

The foregoing is from a paper entitled "Bronze John at Gallipolis," written by William G. Sibley, and published in 1901.

The model barge Mingo which Mr. Sibley describes so accurately, both as to value and condition, was by some persons tied securely and almost hidden among the willows on the Kentucky shore just above Dover, within the jurisdiction of Mason county.

It was determined by the authorities that the menace should be removed; but it was a job that every fellow didn't banker after.

However, the late Marshal Jim Heflin, Dr. H. K. Adamson, Mr. Thomas A. Davis, the latter at the time a member of the City Council,

The gage marks 16.2 and falling.

The Tacoma is the Pomeroy boat up tonight.

The Allegheny and Monongahela rivers are falling at upper points.

The present stage of water in the Ohio is the highest for August in twenty-five years.

The Virginian is scheduled to leave Cincinnati at the regular hour this evening for Pittsburgh.

The J. B. Finley, instead of going through to Pittsburgh, turned South from Louisville with a big tow.

The Joe B. Williams has been raised at Bay City, Ill., and the boat is now being put on the ways at Paducah for repairs.

The towboat S. H. Clark, after undergoing slight repairs at Louisville, is on her way up the river to Pittsburgh with fifteen empty coal boats, one barge load of lumber and eight empty fuel barges.

The officers of the Monongahela Coal Company consider themselves fortunate that no cases of malarial fever broke out on the Finley or the Sprague on the way up from New Orleans. Usually there are several of the crew ill with malaria on all big towboats, but on the recent trips of the Finley and the Sprague no one was ill. Had there been a few men ill of malaria the report would have been circulated that it was yellow fever, and the crews would have been put to a great inconvenience. As it was the Sprague and Finley have been given clearance health bills at Louisville and will experience no more trouble on account of the unfounded reports about yellow fever.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them, however, who may not be brought back to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These Tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For sale by all Druggists.
